MOUNT VERNON. To judge from reports from several places none had a more varied experience of Monday's storm than Mount Vernon. The snow fell to the depth of about fifteen inches, and in some places drifted in banks five or six feet high. In the afternoon there came a heavy fail of sleet and hall, and just before sunset it began to rain. About 7:39 p. m. there were vivid flashes of lightning, accompanied by heavy rollings of thunder, and five minutes later there was thunder that sounded like the explosion of a twelve-inch gun, that shook the buildings, and in some instances threw down the glass globes from the gasjets and dislodged picture frames. The lightning struck a house in Third-st., near Jeffersonave, tore all of the electric wires from their fastenings and set a curtain on fire.

Notwithstanding the storm there was a fairly good audience at the Chester Hill school building to hear the lecture, dlustrated by stereopticon, of Dr. Andrew Fay Currler, on "Some Essential Points in Human Physiology,"

REFORM IN LUXURY.

COMMENT ON THE COMING ADMINISTRATION DINNER AT THE METROPOLITAN CLUB.

fested by both friends and foes of the municipal administration that Mayor Strong and his "Cabinet" should think it necessary to go to the trouble and expense of a sumptuous dinner to enable them to get together and discuss the public interests. It seems to be taken as an admission on the Mayor's part that tea of the kind brewed at the City Hall is not strong enough to bring the heads of the Departments into a state of harmony and unison for considering the city's needs and dangers. Colonel the recognized discoverer of the scheme, and he sent out the "notices" to the other municipal chiefs. Nevertheless, some of them hesitate to follow the lead of the "white-winged angels" boss, and have been busy making excuses and pleading previous engagements. It was said yesterday that Mr.

been busy making excuses and pleading previous engagements. It was said yesterday that Mr. Waring has already received several carefully worded missives expressing regret that the "administration" will have to dine without the writers of them next Tuesday evening. More declinations, it is said, will be forthcoming, and even some Commissioners who have accepted Mr. Waring's seductive invitation may conclude that it will not be good for them to be there.

More surprise was expressed that a plain, everyday, business, reform administration should choose the surpassing munificence of the Metropolitan Club, at Sixtieth-st, and Fifth-ave., as the place for the dinner. A long-headed citizen, who has been a well-wisher of the reform city government from its start, said yesterday that he feared that such an exhibition of luxurious festivity in this renowned and wealthy club might recall to the minds of the "plain people" the fateful dinner at Deimonico's near the end of the campaign of 1884, to which James G. Blaine, unhappily, was lured. To this day, in recounting the causes of Mr. Blaine's defeat for the Presidency, remarked the citizen alluded to, "Belshazzar's Feast" is put down as having allenated votes enough to deprive him of the prize.

"I trust," continued the citizen, "that there is nothing ominous about this. But if I were the Mayor I would take no chances of making history repeat itself, for, as sure as the world, if this administration falls short of public expectation and shall hereafter be written down a failure, the Belshazzar's Feast' at the Metropolitan Club on the evening of March 24 will be pointed at as one of the contributing causes."

ANOTHER LLOYDS CASE ARREST.

PRISONERS HELD IN $5,000 BAIL-DENIALS

OF GUILT BY ACCUSED MEN. Another arrest in the bogus Lloyds case wa made yesterday. Frederick Vail, who was indicted on Monday on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree for selling fraudulent organization papers, was arrested at his office, No. 140 Nassau-st. Vail is a promoter, living at Flushing, L. I.

As in the case of Anthony, who was arrested on a charge of complicity with Graham McAdam in bogus Lloyds affairs, the ball of the three men arrested on Monday was fixed at $5,000 each by Judge Newburger in Part I of the General Sessions yes No bondsmen appeared for William Daynes, William W. Wolfe and Andrew J. Ensign, and the three were committed. Judge Newburger said that he would return to court in the afternoon to accept bail if it were offered. Mr. Daynes had a bondsman Monday night, but he was not in court

The three men were indicted on charges of issuing bogus organization papers, on which Lloyds fire in surance associations did business. The indictment also named Samuel L. Northrop, who is now serving a term in prison for swindling, and George E. Yarrington, a broker and promoter, at present in

While the three prisoners sat in the detectives I sold to the Hamilton brothers. I never looked at papers, and if he was satisfied that they were all right to go ahead. I obtained the charter from the McAdam brothers. I supposed them to be reputable lawyers, and believed that everything was "The other charter was for the General Lloyds,

"The other charter was for the General Lloyds, which was changed to the Montauk Fire Insurance Company. That was temporarily enjoined from doing business."

William W. Wolfe declared that he was innocent of all intentional wrongdoing. He said that he sold a charter without examining it. He advertised it as for sale, and the next day met a purchaser, the transaction netting him $26 commission.

Andrew J. Ensign wrote a statement as follows: "I know nothing of the Lloyds companies or their dealings. I know nothing of the Philadelphia transaction in one Hathway's notes. I have shad no man's money or papers or property. All the statements I have seen in the newspapers connecting me with the transaction referred to are without foundation."

CITY REVENUE WOULD NOT SUFFER.

MR. ORR ANSWERS AN OBJECTION TO THE RAPID

of Estimate and Apportionment a long letter, in tended to show that the city will not lose any rev enue from the Broadway Cable road if the rapid transit railroad is constructed under Broadway, although Controller Fitch recently declared that the city would lose $159,000 a year. The Controller re-ferred to the bond executed by the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company in 1889, stipulating "that from the time when such cable railroad shall be in operation, and so long as no other railroad than those now existing shall be constructed upon, over or under the said routes in Broadway or any part thereof, the percentages upon gros provisions of law for the use of Broadway for rail also paid for such use under such provisions, shall the said company shall agree shall be the minimum amount to be paid annually for such percentage

Mr. Orr states that while the building of a road "under" Broadway might make the bond useless, the railroad company, by the terms of its charter, is bound to pay the annual sum of $10,000 and an additional sum equal to 5 per cent of its gross receipts below Fifteenth-st., into the city treasury. Continuing, Mr. Orr makes the following state-gross income derived by the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company (and its lessee, the Metro-

gross income derived by the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company (and its lessee, the Metropolitan Street Railway Company), from its railroad on Broadway below Fifteenth-st, amounted to the sum of $1,692,305. Five per cent of this sum is $4,617.51, which, added to the fixed annual rent of $40,909, which the company is compelled to pay to the city in addition to the above percentage, would amount to $124,617.51. If, therefore, the bond to which the Controller refers had been abrogated by the building of a rapid transi: railroad under Broadway prior to September 30, 1894, the total consequent loss to the city during the following year would have amounted to but $25,332.49.

"But it is not to be assumed from these figures that if the city shall build a rapid transit railroad under Broadway, the consequent abrogation of the bond above referred to will cause a continued loss of revenue from the cable railroad. For it would appear from the figures contained in the Controller's report for the year 1893 that the number of passengers carried upon the surface of Broadway between Fifteenth-st, and the Battery during that year was 23,107,063, whereas the number of passengers carried upon the same portion of Broadway during the year ending September 30, 1896, was 33,847,007. And it needs no argument to show that if this ratio of increase be maintained for the next two years, as there is every reason to believe that it will be, the annual percentage which the cable company is compelled to pay the city, added to its fixed rent of $40,000, will considerably exceed the minimum sum whose payment is guaranteed by the bond above referred to."

SPRING HATS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

It is a change from ordinary shopping, and must e a relief to many a mother, to go into a store where everything is designed especially for children. Best & Co. have an establishment at Nos. 60 and 62 West Twenty-third-st., which extends through the block to Twenty-second-st., and has long been known as the "Liliputian Bazaar."
It is probably the only place in the country which deals in nothing but children's clothing, and the proprietors and attendants have become true specialists in that line. The firm manufactures its own goods, and, because all attention is concentrated upon the needs of children, it is continually evolv ing original styles and ideas. Best's is, moreover not an expensive place at which to buy. While there are, of course, high-priced articles for those who wish them, there is a remarkable assortment of attractive garments, the value on which is placed as low as is consistent with good workman-placed as low as is consistent with good workmanship.

The special opening of spring hats for babies, children and young people up to the age of eighteen, attracted many visitors to the second floor yesterday. Flowers are extensively used on all except the soft bonnets for the youngest tots.
These are made of slik, chiffon, mull and point d'esprit lace. One charming little blue poke is trimmed with bands of gilt braid, and finished with full lace ruffles inside the brim. The large legaoris, which are such becoming frames for the chubby, rosy faces, are as much in favor as ever.
Often they are trimmed entirely in white, though gay ribbons and delicately tinted blossoms divide the honors. The flowers this season are such finished examples of art that the hats laden with them look like patches from a real garden.
